Justice and Equality

GOVT 6796

Fall 2010

Anna Marie Smith
309 White Hall, ams3@cornell.edu

A normative political theory seminar concentrating on the topics of distributive justice and equality. We will begin with Rawls' Theory of Justice, and then examine various criticisms, especially those advanced by G.A. Cohen. In the 2010 version of this course, we will also focus on the philosophical debates pertaining to educational equity; our readings in this section of the course will include works by Elizabeth Anderson, Stephen Macedo, Deborah Satz, Harry Brighouse and Adam Swift.

1. Introduction

2-8

9, 10.

11.

12.

13.

14.

-------------------------

Recommended reading.

